A statement about AI and Theatre Yes

We are as concerned about the future as anyone else.

Theatre Yes does not use generative artificial intelligence (AI) in the creation or development of any theatre production. We do not use it in fundraising, application-writing or in the creation of promotional images. We pay human artists for their time and skills. Any visual artist employed by us must be able to provide clear and irrefutable evidence that their work is entirely their own.

We may use AI to perform routine tasks that we would otherwise perform ourselves – the creation of social media graphics for example. When we do so, we will clearly mark it as 'AI content'.
